

Webinar #2, Fall Semester 2019:

Facilitating Intercultural Learning: Key Pedagogical Practices

Dr. Tara Harvey, True North Intercultural
Thursday October 10, 2019 – 1-2 pm Eastern

Opportunities for intercultural learning abound, both on our study abroad programs and on our increasingly diverse campuses. However, research indicates that exposure to and even immersion in other cultures does not necessarily lead to intercultural development. Therefore, we need to intentionally design and facilitate experiences that DO foster intercultural learning and growth. But how? In this webinar, we'll discuss several key intercultural pedagogical practices and how they can help us foster learning through intercultural experiences.

Learning outcomes: Participants will have opportunities to:

- Identify several key intercultural pedagogical practices.

About the presenter

Tara Harvey, Ph.D., has been in the field of international/intercultural education for more than fifteen years. She has taught English abroad and worked as an international student advisor at Texas A&M and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. At the University of Minnesota—where she also earned a Ph.D. in Comparative and International Development Education—Tara taught two innovative courses designed to help students learn from and through their own intercultural experiences. As the Academic Director of Intercultural Learning at CIEE (Council on International Educational Exchange), Tara developed the signature course, 'Intercultural Communication and Leadership' (offered at more than 20 study centers around the world) and integrated intercultural learning frameworks into CIEE's wide array of study abroad programs. A contributing author to Student Learning Abroad: What our Students Are Learning, What They're Not, and What We Can Do About It (Stylus, 2012), Tara is currently co-authoring a follow-up book—an educator's guide to facilitating intercultural learning—to be published by Stylus in 2019. As Founder/Consultant of True North Intercultural, Tara is a consultant, trainer, and coach focused on helping educators and institutions of higher education increase students' intercultural learning.